'My Passion' Written Composition

	1	3	5
Audience Connection	The writer's ideas and language fail to connect with the audience.	The writing attempts to connect with the audience in an earnest, pleasing, but impersonal manner	The writer connects strongly with the audience through the intriguing focus of the topic, selection of relevant details, and the use of natural, engaging language.
Purpose	The writer has no clear purpose, and the chosen style does not match the content or ideas.	The writer seems aware of a purpose, and attempts to select content and structures that reflect it.	The purpose of the writing is accurately reflected in the writer's choice of individual and compelling content, and the arrangement of ideas.
Personal	The writing is risk free, and reveals nothing about the author.	The writer occasionally reveals personal details, but primarily avoids risk.	The writer takes a risk by the inclusion of personal details that reveal the person behind the words.
Persuasiveness (meaningful paragraph)	Persuasive writing is lifeless and mechanical, or lacks accurate information.	Persuasive writing lacks consistent engagement with the topic, and fails to use ideas to build credibility.	Persuasive writing reflects a strong commitment to the topic by the careful selection of ideas that show why the reader needs to know this.
